Spalding Masters is good for all . . .

It is with considerable pleasure that I welcome you to the Tauranga Golf Club today for this, the second Spalding Masters Golf Tournament. The club is grateful to Spaldings for the opportunity to stage the tournament and we do hope that it will become an annual fixture at our course. Star-studded tournaments such as these are wonderful opportunities for golfing holidaymakers, and I feel sure the town and district will benefit in no small way.

I would especially welcome the overseas players, some of whom have given exhibitions on our course before, and I wish them, along with all competitors, the very best of luck over the next two days.

Late last year, Commander Harris advised us on a modern reconstruction programme which we have commenced and I am sure players will agree that the course improvements will make it more testing.

To the public we extend a hearty welcome and we hope you enjoy watching good golf in good surroundings. This type of tournament has not been held at the Tauranga Golf Club before, and I know you will gain immeasurable pleasure following the class field in our pleasant and picturesque surroundings.

As we present our course with pride, we do in turn ask that you observe the etiquette of golf by protecting our greens, bunkers and mounds and follow the course marshalls' instructions.

Best wishes to you all,

ARTHUR BLUETT,

Walter Godfrey won the First Spalding Masters

Walter Godfrey cleared out from a hot field of professionals and amateurs to win the first Spalding Masters tournament by 10 strokes, when it was played at Rotorua in February last year.

He clearly established his class, and his right to partner Bob Charles in New Zealand's most successful World Cup (formerly the Canada Cup) team ever, with rounds of 65, 67, 69 and 65 over the tricky par 70 Arikikapakapa course, in a burst of sustained brilliance that left the crowds gasping.

But even in his 72 holes record 266 for the course at an average of 66.5 strokes a round, Godfrey had to share a little of the limelight with the popular Springfield amateur, Don Boone, who broke the course record for Arikikapakapa with 64 in the first round. The previous record of 65, held jointly by professional Eddie Fennell and Freyberg Rosebowl veteran Alf Relph, both of Rotorua, had stood since 1962.

MISSED OPPORTUNITY

Godfrey had a glorious opportunity in his final round to snatch the record from Boone. Coming to the par three 17th, he required two pars for 63. But with his tee shot safely on the sloping green, Godfrey charged the hole and three-putted.

A long drive across the fairway bunkers into short rough at the 18th still gave him position enough to drop a sand iron into the pin for a birdie chance, but his approach fell short, and was trapped. This cost him a further stroke to the card for 65, and Boone's record was safe.

Since then, Walter Godfrey has had his most successful season yet. He crossed the Tasman and there, in pulling off several tournaments, won unstinted praise from his fellow professionals and the press alike.

In Mexico last November, Godfrey assembled rounds of 72, 73, 73, 71 — 289, over the par 72 Club de Mexico course, measuring 7250 yards, to partner Bob Charles into second place against 39 other nations. At Hamilton, in the 1967 N.Z. Open, he scored 73, 70, 74, 73 — 290, after a hurried return to New Zealand which gave neither him nor Bob Charles time to settle down.

But with the 1967 circuit firmly — and successfully — grooved into his game, and with Gate Pa in such fine order, it is certain that Godfrey will be after scores like those he shot at Rotorua to retain the Masters title.

Details of the leading scores in the 1966 Spalding Masters tournament were (asterisk denotes amateur):—

W. J. Godfrey, 65, 67, 69, 65, 266; *D. K. Boone, 64, 70, 68, 74, 276; J. Croskery, 68, 73, 69, 69, 279; F. Malloy, 72, 71, 67, 71, 281; J. Carter, 65, 74, 70, 72, 281; *P. A. Maude, 71, 69, 72, 70, 282; D. Clark, 74, 74, 69, 66, 283; *A. C. Relph, *E. F. Carswell, T. A. Brady, J. Lister, 284; *C. Hurihanganui, 285; F. X. Buckler, N. D. Hayden, 286; R. R. Newdick, 287; G. Q. Attrill, E. A. Southerden, *M. S. L. Thompson, 289; *K. Carter, *S. M. Leech, E. Fennell, 290.

Spalding President sends a Special Message

A special message to the golfers competing in the second Spalding Masters golf tournament in New Zealand has been received from Mr Edwin L. Parker, president of A. G. Spalding & Bros. Inc., Chicopee, Massachusetts.

In his letter, Mr Parker said:—

"Whenever and wherever golfers assemble, Spalding 'cannot be far away'.

"Whenever and wherever golfers—and the wonderful audiences who watch them—vie for that particular event's supremacy, good sportsmanship, good fellowship and good golf dominate the scene and in the long run become more important than the scores of the participants.

"Golf, more than any other of the popular sports, is more than just a game. It is a way of life—and a good way of life!

"To all of you people at Tauranga—players, spectators and the hard workers who are behind the success of every such event, on behalf of Spalding and its personnel in Australia, Japan, Canada, England, Belgium, Northern Ireland and the United States, good wishes—and great golfing!"

● Did you know that Jack Nicklaus of U.S.A. and Bruce Devlin of Australia are becoming more and more interested in golf course architecture. Both have joined companies in this line and intend to devote full time to this work when tour war ends.

● Something new in shafts for golf clubs. We have had fibre glass for years but now Arnold Palmer has designed Aluminium shafts. So far he has won two tournaments with them.

History of TAURANGA GOLF CLUB

Obscurity surrounds the early history of golf in Tauranga, but it appears the game owes its introduction to the efforts of Dr William Brown who, according to the records, aroused the interest of others in forming a club in 1911.

The game was first played at the Domain near Wharepai, where hockey is played nowadays, and one of the golf club's original members, Mr Bill Darley, played at Tauranga Golf Club right up until the time of his death last year.

A nine-hole course was in play in 1912, the clubhouse being a shed which housed the greenkeeper's implements — a hand lawnmower and, presumably, a supply of sweat cloths for his labours. This structure was situated where the football sheds now stand and the annual subscriptions were £1 for men, 5/- for ladies.

Covering a devious path, the original course was a short one, the longest hole being approximately 250 yards in length. Sunday play was not allowed because of the views held by the gracious landlady, Mrs Maxwell of The Elms, but when she sold all her sections, things became different.

RUGGED TIMES

A decision was made in 1916 to move out to the racecourse where, with very limited finances and much clearing of bracken and gorse to be faced up to, the members found the going too tough and decided to return to the Domain.

It was not long, however, before the club moved back to the racecourse, and the racecourse buildings proved to be suitable premises for the club house. Four holes were laid out in the racecourse oval, the others rambling over the existing site.

In 1938 the club erected its first clubhouse behind the present 18th green where the existing car park is situated. Further additions later on included provision for a men's lounge.

As time passed and revenues improved, members began planning for a new clubhouse. This was opened in 1954 and was enlarged to its present dimensions in 1966. The present value of the buildings and contents, including the spacious professional shop occupied by Jim Paterson, is in the vicinity of $70,000.

Better Matching through Individual Shafts . . .

To provide discriminating golfers with the ULTIMATE in a matched set of clubs, SPALDING has introduced individual shaft lengths in all Top Grade woods and irons.

The Pro-fit shaft is still the best made but, with individual shaft lengths, SPALDING offers a truly matched set of clubs equal to anything produced in the world today.

Up to the present time, the standard practice has been to use only five or six different shaft lengths so that one shaft had to serve two or more clubs, in spite of the fact that heads increase in weight progressively through the set.

With individual shaft lengths for each club, golfers will enjoy the following advantages:—

1. Uniform shaft weight. 2. Uniform shaft diameter, firmness and feel at the grip. 3. Progressively firm deflection through the set from driver to 4 wood and from 2 iron to sand club. 4. Correctly positioned fulcrum point. Result — a perfectly matched set in every respect.

THE PEARLS OF GOLF:

Earl Balfour, British Prime Minister, winner of the Parliamentary Golf Tournament 1894 & 1897 said:

"The wit of man has never invented a pastime equal to golf for its healthful recreation, its pleasurable excitement and its never ending source of amusement."

- Bobby Locke: "Temper never got anyone anywhere in golf."

The Men who Prepared Gate Pa . . .

When Commander Harris, the noted British golf course architect, paid a professional visit to Tauranga last year, his approach to various matters pertaining to course improvements left a deep impression with head greenkeeper Grant Silvester, pictured at the wheel of the club's tractor, and his assistant for the past 5½ years, Wally Butler.

Between them, these two men are responsible for the top notch condition in which the Gate Pa links have been presented to both players and spectators for the Spalding Masters. Many hours of painstaking work have gone into the course preparations and their efforts are widely appreciated.

Grant, who has worked for the club for the past 15 years, describes his impressions of Commander Harris' visit this way:—

"Commander Harris walked over the course making comments on each green and each fairway, explaining how they could be improved. To me it was the most instructive occasion related to golf course architecture that I have ever experienced.

A PRACTICAL MAN

"That man seems to have a built in spirit level and chain measure as, when I came to carry out his recommendations, I found the levels and distances were exactly as he described them.

"I found him intensely practical from a greenkeeper's point of view and any work which he suggested, when carried out, enhanced the green, its environs, or the fairway very considerably.

"I would advise any club which retains him, to obtain detailed plans of any alterations, and work from these. They are so clear and precise that any contractor or sensible greenkeeper can carry out the work with utmost expediency.

"Commander Harris was worth more, in my opinion, than the fee charged, and it is my regret that he did not visit the club 20 years sooner.

"Both Wally Butler and myself wish competitors and spectators a happy and successful time during the Spalding Masters and we assure you it has been a great pleasure to prepare the course for such an important occasion."

● Fairway Feats: What better way to celebrate a birthday? Dr R. C. Spangler, retired West Virginia University Professor marked his 83rd year with 83 holes of golf. He equalled his age on the first round followed by 89, 87, 87 and 46 for extra 11. He covered an estimated 25 miles in 9½ hours and walked all the way.

Tauranga Golf Club Woman is National Champion

Tauranga Ladies' Golf Club has a national champion in the person of Mrs K. Johnston, who won the New Zealand Maori Ladies' Golf Championship at Pukekohe last August in a thrilling final from Mrs Dawn Blake, formerly the junior international Dawn Peters of Maramarua.

Mrs Johnston, who plays off a handicap of one, is seen here on the first tee at Tauranga.

Springfield Golf Club amateur, and Bay of Plenty Freyberg Rosebowl representative, DON BOONE, also holds the course record for Tauranga. He returned a sizzling 65 in the first qualifying round of the 1967 Tauranga open and went on to take the title for the sixth time, thus equalling the record number of wins in the event set previously by F. W. Ward.

is due to them for their enterprise in capitalising on the type of country available. They were Fred Rutter and Alex Murray (both professionals) and Mr H. B. Lusk, a noted amateur who was headmaster of King's College.

Among its distinguished players over the years, the club has provided one Freyberg Rosebowl representative in F. W. Ward, six times Tauranga Open Champion and seven times club champion, now resident in Hastings.

Commander Harris, the noted British golf course architect, paid a visit to Tauranga last February, As a result, people who know Gate Pa well will notice several new layout features, particularly in bunkering and mounding techniques, that have added to the character of a course which rates high in popularity throughout New Zealand and with overseas visitors.

Course Record is High

There's a course record of 74 — against par of 66 — waiting to be broken by anyone willing to have a try while they are in Tauranga. This is at the Otumoetai Golf Club, which came into being four years ago on Ngatai Road, two miles from Tauranga Post Office.

With a men's membership of 90, 50 women and three juniors, this happy little club, which considers itself the "launching pad" for future members of other district clubs, operates on municipal land over nine holes measuring 2650 yards.

Visitors are made welcome at Otumoetai, where the fairways are fairly narrow and the greens are considered by their own members to be "reasonably good". Green fees are 30 cents for nine holes and 50 cents a day. It's a lot of fun.

Guiding light behind the club's formation was Mr C. J. Davison, its only life member, who has seen lots of voluntary work go into course development. Affiliated to the Bay of Plenty District Golf Association only a few months ago, Otumoetai was originally formed 30 years ago under the name of Te Puna, and moved to its present site in 1963.

FRANK MACKLOW

Aged 64 and on a handicap of 7, retired chemist Frank G. Macklow is one of Tauranga Golf Club's members who has earned distinction for his club at the competitive level in golf. His achievement? Frank is the first person to win the New Zealand Veterans' Championship in consecutive years — 1964 and 1965.

Not content with this, he has also been three times a winner of the Tauranga Veterans' Tournament in addition to a host of other club and district competitions, spread over an amateur career which goes back to 1925 when he first picked up a club at Te Awamutu.

Educated at Auckland Grammar School, Frank played in the first eleven cricket team in 1920, and to show his versatility as a sportsman, he represented Waipa for two years in the White Horse Cup hockey competition.

A foundation member of the present Whakatane golf links, Frank enjoys his regular game of golf at Tauranga and looks forward to being around for a long time yet.

CHOICE OF SHAFTS AND SWINGWEIGHTING FOR BETTER GOLF

In an endeavour to provide their clients with a complete service in golf clubs, SPALDING are offering a choice of shafts in three different degrees of flex for their Executive, Top Flite and Marilynn Smith models. In addition, these three models may be fitted with a choice of either leather or Spalding "Cushion Control" grips.

All sets ordered with non-standard shafts are manufactured to the same high degree of excellence as is customary with Spalding products and according to the appropriate specifications regarding head-weight, balance and swing weight applicable to that particular shaft. Clubs may also be ordered either longer or shorter than standard.

As a guide, the shafts available are listed below, together with the index letters, relative degrees of flex and recommended applications:—

Pro-fit "S", Stiff: Built for stronger hitting and low handicap men. Pro-fit "R", Regular: Standard shaft for most men golfers. Pro-fit "A", more flexible than "R": Suitable for lighter hitting men or for stronger women. Pro-fit "L", Standard Ladies: Suitable for most women golfers. Pro-fit "W", Whippy: Suitable for more elderly or not so strong women golfers.

MATCHED FOR SWINGWEIGHT

All boxed sets of SPALDING clubs are matched for Swingweight, thus every club in the set has the same feel and swings at the same tempo.

Swing-weight is measured on a swing-weight scale. It indicates the weight distribution of the club taking into account weight of the head, shaft, grip and other component parts. This swing-weight is "built in" at the factory and cannot be "doctored" without upsetting the balance of the club.

In selecting their sets, golfers should choose the lightest No. 5 iron which feels right for them. A common misconception is that a heavier set of clubs will give greater distance.

LOFTS AND LIES

These are built in at the factory according to A. G. Spalding & Bros, U.S.A., specifications. Special orders for "flat" or "up-right" lies can be supplied on request.

SEVEN-DAY SERVICE

EARLY RULES OF THE GAME

From the office wall of Pukekohe electrician Harry T. Moore, himself a well known golfer and former Pukekohe course record holder, comes this interesting set of rules which was adopted by the St. Andrew's Society of Golfers at a meeting on Friday, 1st May, 1812:—

1. The balls must be teed not nearer the hole than two club lengths, nor farther from it than four.
2. The ball farthest from the hole must be played first.
3. The ball struck from the tee must not be changed before the hole is played out, and if the parties are at a loss to know the one ball from the other, neither shall be lifted till both parties agree.
4. Stones, bones, or any break-club within a club length of the ball may be removed when the ball lies on grass, but nothing can be removed if it lie on sand or in a bunker, if however it stick fast in the ground, it may be loosened.
5. If the ball lie in a rabbit scrape, the player shall not be at liberty to take it out, but must play it as from any common hazard, if however it lie in one of the burrows, he may lift it, drop it behind the hazard, and play with an iron without losing a stroke.
6. If the ball is half covered or more with water, the player may take it out, tee it, and play from behind the hazard, losing a stroke.
7. If the ball lie in the supernumerary hole on the hole-across green, it may be dropped behind the hazard, and played with an iron, without losing a stroke.
8. When the balls lie within six inches of one another, the ball nearest the hole must be lifted till the other is played, but on the putting green it shall not be lifted, although within six inches, unless it be directly between the other and the hole.
9. Whatever happens to a ball by accident, must be reckoned a rub of the green, if, however, the player's ball strike his adversary or his caddy, the adversary loses the hole: If it strike his own caddy, the player loses the hole: If the player strike his adversary's ball with his club, the player loses the hole.
10. If a ball is lost, the stroke goes for nothing, the player returns to the spot whence the ball was struck, tees it, and loses a stroke.
11. If in striking, the club breaks, it is neverthless to be accounted a stroke, if the player either strike the ground or pass the ball.
12. In holing, you are not to place any mark to direct you to the hole, you are to play your ball fairly and honestly for the hole, and not on your adversary's ball not lying in your way to the hole.
13. All loose impediments of whatever kind, may be removed upon the putting green.
14. In all cases where a ball is to be dropped, the party dropping shall front the hole to which he is playing, and drop the ball behind him, over his head.
15. When a ball is completely covered with fog, bent, whins, etc, so much thereof shall be set aside as that the player shall have a full view of his ball before he plays.
16. When the balls touch each other, one of them must be lifted till the other be played.
17. Any disputes respecting the play shall be determined by the captain or senior member present, and if none of the members are present, by the captain and his annual council for the time.

Noel Hockin with the L. C. Smith Rosebowl

NOEL HOCKIN . . .

Years of Service to Bay and Club

Foremost among those who have played a vital role in the Bay of Plenty Golf Association's development since he helped in its formation in 1946, is Mr N. H. E. (Noel) Hockin, secretary-manager of the Tauranga Golf Club. One way or another, his active interest in administering the association covered a period of 20 years up until recently, including terms of three years as president and seven years as secretary.

Starting golf at the age of 15 at Mount Denby with his parents and younger brother, Noel Hockin received his first lessons from Scottish professional Fred Hood. But his early liking for the game — which he played in his spare time at the old Glendowie course and at Titirangi — took second place to Rugby until 1929.

Fresh out of the armed forces in 1945, Noel migrated to Whakatane, was elected to the golf club committee, serving later on as captain, and finally as president. He twice won the senior club championship.

When the Freyberg Rosebowl competition was inaugurated in 1952, Noel was on his lowest handicap of two. Logically enough he was appointed captain of the Bay's first team comprising himself, Noel Hayden, Wally Reid, Alf Relph, Ivan Deadman and Colin Cutfield, which went to Paraparaumu where, in the final round, they came extremely close to upsetting the victorious Manawatu-Wanganui team.

As Noel himself says, he moved to Tauranga in 1953, "hoping for a rest from golf administration", but he "fell" for a committee job until appointed secretary in 1957, a position he has held ever since.

Revolutionary Ball has Solid Centre

Twelve years of intensive research have gone into producing the revolutionary Spalding "Executive" solid-core golf ball (see picture) — no, it's not a cross-sectioned hard boiled egg — which will be on sale in New Zealand in May.

Unique in its construction, this is the ball intended to capture approval from top golfers and the support of average players alike. Because it compares favourably for length with all leading brands of orthodox manufacture, it should appeal to the "tiger" golfer.

And for the duffer who these days seeks greater mileage for his money in more ways than can be counted on the fingers of two hands, here is a ball that cannot be cut. It can be marked, yes, but only with the mightiest of mis-swipes — so it should, equally, win his support also.

The fingers of one hand in which the ball rests, are those of Spalding representative Gordon Seccombe, from Auckland. Using a band saw, Gordon had difficulty in slicing through the ball to expose the "stomach" of Spalding's "secret weapon".

We see a solid inner core and a moulded outer cover much thicker than usual. These are joined together in one process by a new system of moulding to produce a ball orthodox both in size and weight. The whole product is a combination of synthetics, the exact components of which are known only to Spaldings.

It was only when they were completely satisfied they had developed the ball to the required standard that the parent company released it for the market. In New Zealand it will retail for 60 cents.

How does it feel to hit one of these solid-core orbs? The experts say it has a different — but very satisfying feel on the club. In response to even the most delicate putting stroke, it emits a positive "click".

At this stage it is difficult to define what effect it will have on the manufacturing industry. But it is a pretty safe bet that, as the leader in its field, the solid-core golf ball is here to stay.

Spectators at the Spalding Masters tournament will be able to form their own conclusions when they inspect the sample, which is on show at Jim Paterson's pro shop at the Gate Pa links.

NOEL HOCKIN . . .

To the many members and visitors over the years, however, this state of affairs has been a blessing. Noel has proved an excellent "mine host" whose hospitable attitude has made a name for the club and himself throughout New Zealand and overseas. His ability to organise important tournaments was highlighted in the successful pro-amateur tournaments played at Tauranga each year until 1965.

In the picture, he is seen inspecting the L. C. Smith Rosebowl, symbol of supremacy in the amateur section of these tournaments, which usually attracted a class field of amateurs and professionals from all over the North Island each autumn. This Rosebowl will be at stake for the amateurs during the Spalding Masters $2000 Tournament.

GOLF

Golf is a science, the study of a lifetime, in which you may exhaust yourself but never your subject.

It is a contest, a duel, or a melee, calling for courage, skill, strategy and self-control.

It is a test of temper, a trial of honour, a revealer of character.

It affords a chance to play the man and act the gentleman.

It means going into God's out-of-doors, getting close to nature, fresh air, exercise, a sweeping away of mental cobwebs, genuine recreation for tired tissues.

It is a cure for care, an antidote to worry.

It includes companionship with friends, social intercourse, opportunities for courtesy, kindliness and generosity to an opponent.

It promotes not only physical health but moral force.

—D. R. Forgan.

Acknowledgement

For the Tauranga Golf Club, the Spalding Masters $2000 Tournament creates a milestone in its history with the appearance of so many New Zealand and International golf stars at the course.

A tremendous amount of work has gone into preparations for all aspects of the tournament, most of it on a voluntary basis by a large number of members and others anxious to ensure its success.

As publisher of the Spalding Masters Programme, I wish to acknowledge the support given so generously by the advertisers and by the Secretary, Mr Noel Hockin, friend of all golfers for many years. Without their assistance, it would not have been possible to produce this programme, the information in which I hope you find interesting and helpful.

From the National Junior Coaching School in Wellington, where I am at present occupied with Norman von Nida giving instruction to New Zealand's leading juniors, I send my best wishes to all for a happy and successful tournament.
